SPANA changes the lives of working animals in three ways

Free veterinary care

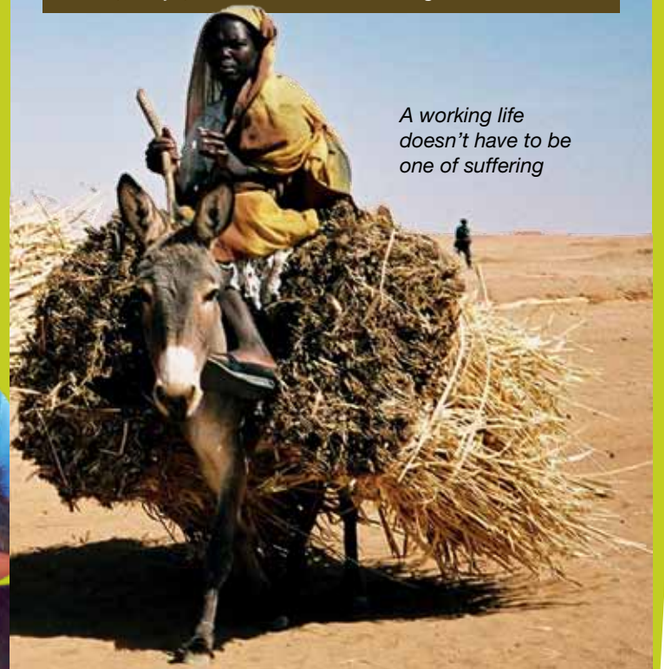
Many poor families can't afford treatment for their animals. That's why free veterinary care is at the heart of SPANA's work. We run a network of fixed and mobile veterinary clinics in developing countries around the world. We treat around 400,000 working animals every single year.

Education and training

SPANA educates both today's animal owners and also children in animal welfare so tomorrow's working animals will have better lives. More than 46,000 school children visit SPANA's learning zones each year. We also train local vets in modern veterinary techniques and treatments.

Emergencies

In times of crisis we can be there to ensure both animals and people get the support they urgently need. We've saved the lives of tens of thousands of working animals in Chad, Kenya, Sudan, Zimbabwe and Afghanistan.



A working life doesn't have to be one of suffering

There are lots of ways you can help working animals

Fundraising events and collections
From a car boot sale to a marathon, there are loads of fundraising events you can get involved in. Or you could ask your local supermarket if you can arrange a collection or get permission from your local council to collect on the streets.

Spreading the word
Ask your local vet, doctor, dentist, library or community centre if they'll display a SPANA poster, leaflets or collection box.

SPANA gift catalogue
Perfect for Christmas, Easter, birthdays and anniversaries. A wonderful way to help.

Giving a regular gift
Monthly gifts, even small ones, by direct debit are a fantastic way to support the working animals of the world.

Leaving SPANA a gift in your Will
Nearly half of our work is funded by gifts in Wills. Any gift, large or small, can make a difference to working animals.

Whether you want to give a donation, run a marathon for us or leave a legacy – please support SPANA and help the world's working animals.

SPANA

Caring for the working animals of the world

What we do

SPANA is the charity for the world's working animals. We work in some of the poorest countries in the world caring for horses, donkeys and other animals that endure hardship and backbreaking toil.

Yet SPANA is far more than just an animal charity. We believe that by ensuring a working animal is well cared for and healthy, we can also help the poor families who depend on animals for their livelihoods – and, in some cases, even their lives.

Our vision is of a future where all working animals are treated with respect, care and compassion.

As a charity, SPANA relies entirely on the kindness of members of the public. Please support SPANA and help the world's working animals.

The SPANA story

SPANA was founded in 1923 by Kate Hosali and her daughter Nina, after they witnessed the mistreatment of animals on their travels in north Africa. Kate soon returned to Africa to treat as many animals as she could, while Nina set up SPANA in London.

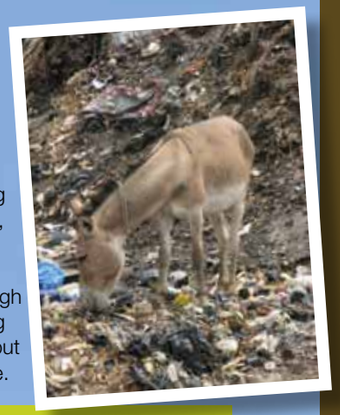
Kate criss-crossed Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia, visiting 58 towns and news about her spread. She won the respect and friendship of local people and they even started to call her the Toubiba ("Lady Doctor").

Both Kate and Nina devoted the rest of their lives to SPANA, and their passion for working animals remains at the heart of SPANA's work today.

"Behind that façade of picturesque beauty there existed a vast sea of neglected animal suffering." Nina Hosali, 1923

The same compassion for animals and determination to stop suffering still motivates our vets today

Mali's rubbish dump donkeys



Walking over broken glass and twisted metal… toiling in the heat with tonnes of rubbish weighing you down… Life doesn't get any tougher for a donkey than working on the rubbish dumps of Bamako, Mali's capital city.

Even worse, tetanus caught through cuts from infected rubbish is killing donkeys. It's an agonising death but one that is completely preventable.

What is SPANA doing?

SPANA vets are providing the essential vaccination shots required to immunise a donkey against tetanus. So far, we have immunised 2,600 donkeys.

You can help us do even more with a gift today. Just £15 can immunise one more donkey against tetanus.

Give a gift to SPANA today

With your help, SPANA vets can provide a lifeline to sick, injured and exhausted working animals.

£10 will buy a course of painkillers to help ease the suffering of a working animal.

£25 will pay for a visit to a SPANA centre by schoolchildren, where they learn to respect and value animals.

£38 will cover the cost of two weeks' rest and recovery for an injured donkey at a SPANA centre.

£50 will buy two sets of padded harnessing to replace old worn out saddles, which cause painful wounds.

Please help working animals and the families who depend on them for their survival
